MR. DONALD LOVE

MRS. KATHRYNE MOORE

Dedication

Mrs. Kathrynne Moore and Mr. Donald Love, the Class of 1959 would like to state publicly:

As we make our way into the troubled and sometimes uncontrollable world, you will see that your untiring efforts to guide us through three years at Westerly High School, toward our future destinations, were not wasted;

That the many hours and work spent in counseling us, teaching us to cope with our problems, and helping us to choose the pattern which, for most of us, will rule our entire lives, were deeply appreciated.

We would like sincerely to say that you, Mrs. Moore, and you, Mr. Love, have done so much for us as a group and especially as individuals, that your attention and consideration will never be forgotten. The wonderful way in which you advised us concerning "our" special problem, no matter how trivial, will remain in our minds forever.

In order to demonstrate the great affection each member of the class holds for you, the Class of 1959 takes deepest pleasure in dedicating its Yearbook, the Bulldog, to you.

SUPERINTENDENT'S MESSAGE

You have now reached a point in your life when you must make many of the choices that have been made for you by your parents and teachers. Now you must choose which paths or persons you wish to follow. If you choose the more difficult paths they will lead to an easier life. If you choose with care the persons you follow, then you will be exerting the highest order of leadership.

PRINCIPAL'S ADDRESS

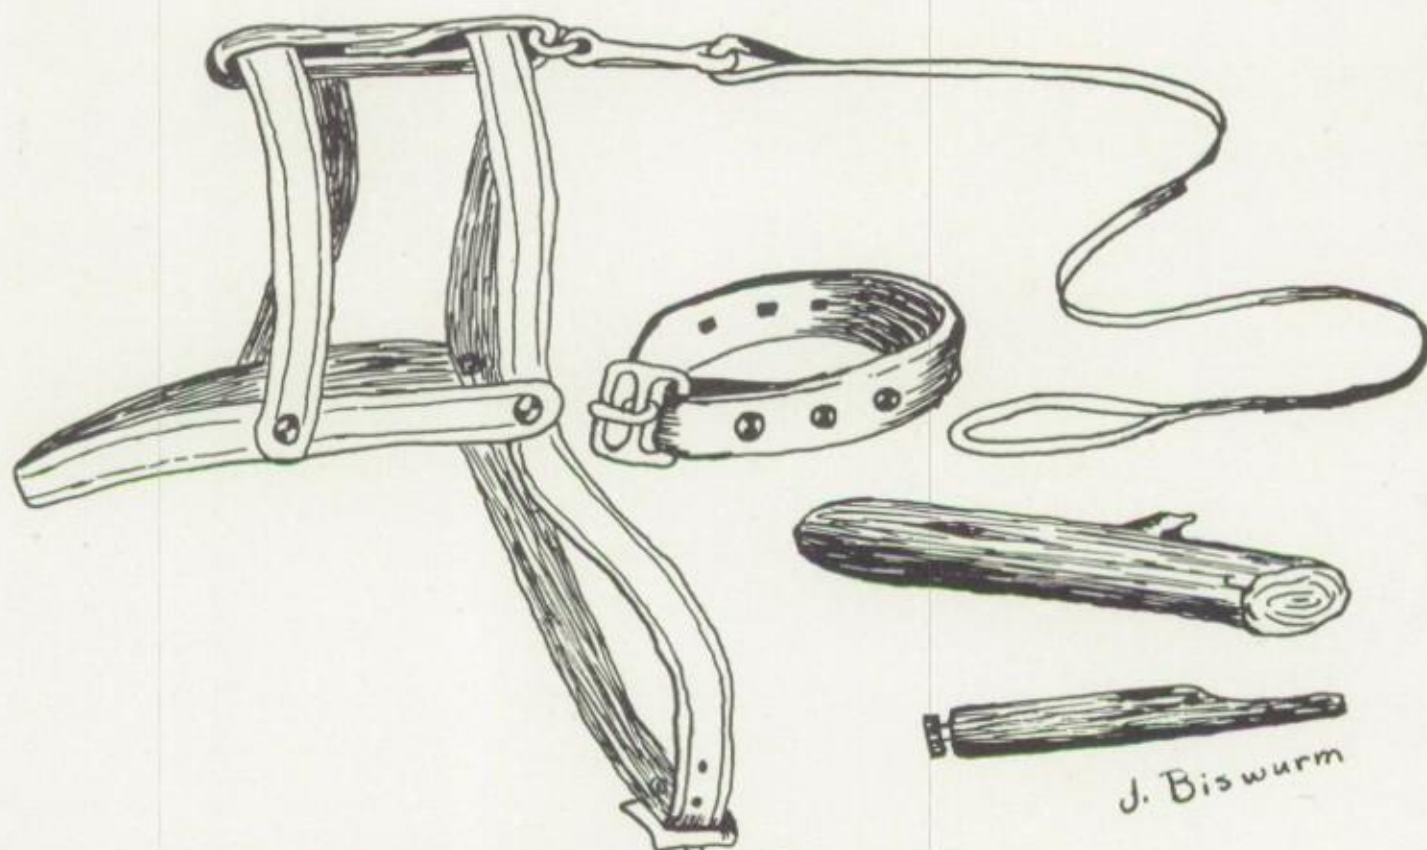

My congratulations to the Class of 1959 for having reached the goal for which you have been striving for the past three years.

I hope that you are leaving this school with an air of confidence in the future. Remember that the man who expects to fail is a failure already. He may as well give up before he starts, for he has condemned himself and there is no possibility of his succeeding. On the other hand, the man who does not know that it is possible for him to fail already has the battle half won. John Paul Jones told the British commander that he had not yet begun to fight, when his ship was sinking under his feet. He won the battle. If you go forth from this school with a clear head, if you believe that every man is your friend and that none have any evil intents against you because you have none against them, if, after thinking your plan through to its logical conclusion, with the clear idea that you can and will succeed, then your future is assured.

Good luck and best wishes to each of you.

GEORGE R. VISGILIO, JR.
Class President

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

Fellow Classmates, Teachers, Parents, and Friends:

Our three years at Westerly High School have come to a close, but the memories of the wonderful times we have enjoyed here will live with us forever.

We shall never forget the excitement of athletic contests, the fun of hops and proms, and, most important, the satisfaction of successful scholastic endeavor.

Because we have so thoroughly enjoyed our high school education, we would like to thank all those who have made it a reality. We thank our parents, who have sacrificed so greatly that we might benefit from a wholesome family life and a secondary school education. We thank the taxpayers and town officials of Westerly, who have provided us with such an excellent school system. We thank our teachers, who have not only instructed us in the different high school subjects, but have also instilled in us a knowledge of the basic principles of society which will be so valuable to us as we take our places in the community. Finally, we thank our principal, Mr. Stevens; our guidance director, Mr. Love; and our class counselor, Mrs. Moore — all of whom have contributed so greatly to the success of the Class of 1959.

We extend our best wishes to the faculty, who, together with the underclassmen, have made our days at Westerly High School such a pleasant memory.

To the undergraduates, we wish the glowing satisfaction which is the result of personal betterment. We hope that they will treasure their days at Westerly High School as much as we cherish ours.

We, the Class of 1959, because we wish to express our deepest gratitude to an institution which has done so much to make us good American citizens and intelligent human beings, do dedicate ourselves, as we continue in life, to uphold the lofty ideals and honored traditions of Westerly High School.

CLASS WILL

I, JoAnn Adimari, do hereby bequeath my nerve pills to anyone who has as much to be nervous about as I had.

We, Pat Alfiero and Flonnie Bitgood, being of sound mind and broken bones, do hereby bequeath to the highway department our ability to move unmovable trees and poles.

I, Henry Allen, leave my red socks to Brian Edmond, in the hope that he can attract as much attention as I did.

I, Arthur Arzamarski, do hereby bequeath my so-called bashfulness to Thelma Daland, hoping that she can overcome it as well as I did.

I, Bob Autry, leave my ability to run sideways on the football field to Chape Boumenot.

I, Ray Bader, leave my air of worldliness to someone who needs it.

We, Carole Bailey, Martha DePietro, and Cynthia Marino, leave our Sunday rides to the country to any Juniors who like farmers as much as we do.

I, Judy Barbone, do hereby bequeath my job of saving seats in the cafeteria to Nancy Gencarelli.

I, Margie Barr, leave my extra credits to Chape Boumenot, who will probably need them next year.

We, Joyce Biswurm and Marilyn Spino, humbly leave our brains for exhibition.

We, Sandy Bitgood and Arlene Bruno, bequeath our ability to solve each others problems during our overnight sessions to Connie Garafola and Agnes Lamb.

I, Mary Botelle, being of sound mind, leave my driving ability(?) to Whitney Randall.

We, Tom Bowder, Peter Chiaradio, Charlie Toscano, and Joe Selvidio, leave the "Trojans" to Jim Felicetti, Steve Turrisi, and Dennie Marie.

I, Jean Boyne, as head typist of the "Barker," bequeath to my successor the agony and fun of trying to get the material typed.

I, Joe Brancato, leave this school, because I think I have been here long enough.

I, Linda Brown, bequeath my position as typist for Coach Stellitano to any girl who thinks she can read his writing.

I, Bobby Brown, will my provoking ways to any boy who dares to take them.

I, Mary Browning, do hereby bequeath to Lorraine Gelinas my old HG socks.

I, Lois Burdick, leave my ability to get along with Miss Warner to Dolores LaBreque who, I'm sure, gets along well with her now.

I, Stephen Burdick, leave — happy I made it.

We, Carol Burley, Roberta Dowbekin, and Marie Liborio, do hereby bequeath to any underclassmen our everlasting friendship.

We, Bob Butler and Al Szymanski, will our amiable relationship with Mr. Palmer to anyone who can cause him as many headaches as we did and still remain in class.

I, Nancy Cahoon, do hereby bequeath my short stature to anyone, and hope I can grow taller by leaving it.

I, Donnie Capalbo, leave my rotten apple cores to next year's cafeteria crew.

I, Donna Capalbo, do hereby bequeath to Peggy Shibilio my petiteness, knowing she'll never get lost in the shuffle.

I, Richard Capalbo, leave my candelabra to someone who likes to play the piano as much as I do (without much light).

I, Richard Capezzano, do hereby bequeath my starting position on the successful "Blobs" to Ronnie Carboni, brother of "Coach" Tank Carboni.

We, Jim Capizzano, Bob Chiaradio, and Jack Collins, leave our great love of football to the oncoming team, hoping they win a few more games than we did.

I, Lennie Capizzano, will nothing to nobody, for I think no one can carry on the tradition which I have set.

I, Richard Cappuccio, bequeath my permission (?) to smoke in the Boys' Room to Steve Turrisi, hoping he doesn't get caught.

I, Carl Carboni, leave my basket to catch footballs to the "Sparrow."

We, George Carson and Jim Whitman, do hereby bequeath our quiet and pleasant ways to all underclassmen. We're sure some could use them.

I, William Carsten, leave my "love" of studying to all incoming students.

I, Joan Caruolo, bequeath my silent tactics to any underclassman who needs some.

I, Bonnie Cayer, do hereby bequeath my Stoddard Bailey to Helen Brown.

I, Jumper Cayer, leave my gassed up history book to any hot-rodder.

I, Blaine Cherenzia, will the dust and papers in my locker to anyone who won't sneeze.

I, Eddie Chiaradio, leave to anyone the pleasure of having every school official watching him.

I, Charlie Cimalore, leave my tardiness to any continually tardy underclassman.

I, Roger Clark, leave my journeys from Ashaway to any other suburbanite who goes to school in the big city.

We, Carol Cofone and Frances Dotolo, will our ability as "Beatniks" to two Junior girls who have the false impression that they can "keep the beat."

I, Ed Cofone, leave my Italian class, knowing Miss Ruisi will be pleased.

I, Joe Corr, do bequeath my place on the Honor Roll (??) to Bob Hustwit.

I, Randy Crandall, leave my intramural team to Hayden, Smith, and Salimeno.

I, Bill Crandall, will my curly hair to any Junior girl who wants it, for I'll soon go bald anyway.

We, Ann Crowley and Carol Matson, do hereby bequeath our "ballet" to Brenda Sylvia, and hope she has better students the next time.

I, Doris Day, bequeath my famous name to any Junior who would like to be mistaken for a movie star.

I, Judy Denault, leave my peanut butter crackers to anyone who can eat them as fast as I can in class.

I, Mike Denault, will my track shoes to Philip Chiaradio, hoping he fills them well.

I, Diane Desillier, do hereby bequeath to a female underclassman my flute, and hope that she won't be the lone flute player I was.

I, Maurice Devine, leave my gas bill, accumulated during trips to Watch Hill, to anyone associated with the "flying red horse."

I, Shirley DeVoe, do bequeath to Marilyn Joubert my list of combinations and the hope that she can add it.

I, Tom Dinwoodie, will my left-over winter green to Bob Hustwit.

I, Fred Dotolo, leave my thanks to the water boy for keeping me well watered during football games.

We, Janie Eccleston and Carol Nadolny, do bequeath our good friendship to two Junior boys, hoping they can get along better next year.

I, Bill Egan, do hereby bequeath to any prospective stagehand my paint-stained dungarees and shirt.

We, Louis Garofola and Vern Eleazer, will our white drum majors' uniform to anyone in the cleaning business.

I, John Fagan, leave my unknown combination to someone who is curious.

I, Andy Fair, bequeath my fairness in name and complexion to no one, because it must be kept in the family.

I, Dolores Faulise, leave my early morning classes to someone who doesn't work on the late shift.

I, Brian Flynn, will all my friendly enemies to John Algieri.

We, Mo Foley and Julie Hurtado, bequeath our "GD's" to Diane Serra and Sandra Romanella.

I, Eugene Fortune, leave at the disposal of the underclassmen all the teachers I've had.

I, Muriel Frennette, do hereby bequeath good luck to any junior girl who takes my place in Miss Houston's heart.

I, Helen Gabrielle, leave to all underclassmen the advice that they gain more respect for Seniors unless they want to be mangled in the halls.

I, Richard Gabrielle, bequeath to Tom Gavitt my wavy brown toupee.

I, Frank Gallo, leave my curly black hair to Frank Capizano, and a package of bobbypins to jealous girls.

I, George Gardiner, will my Dictionary of Botanical Names to Mr. Hindle, so that he may study the names of animals.

We, Marion Gardiner and Dot Roberts, leave our hot Chevys to anyone who can control them.

I, Richard Gencarelli, do hereby bequeath my week's leave of absence to anyone who is crowded on the office bench.

I, Eileen Gervasini, bequeath to my sister Jeanne my ability to say "no," for she certainly should.

I, Tim Gilchrist, leave to all Juniors my permission to engrave initials on desks.

I, Fred Griffin, will my essay "Ways and Means to Avoid Boredom in Class" to anybody taking his classes too seriously.

We, Sam Haberek and David Kenyon, bequeath one cow to anyone from a large family.

I, John Hall, leave to Dick Greenwood the responsibility of upholding the tradition of the Avondale Boys.

We, Judy Hall and Karen Zegarzewski, will to two unworthy Junior girls the honor of being two of the "Bebes."

I, Rodney Harris, leave my bottle of sea sickness pills to Ray Allen, who is going into the Navy.

I, Pat Hogan, leave my hours in the girls' room to Lorraine LaPlante.

I, Charlie Jacques, bequeath to Eugene Gencarelli my police whistle, to clear alcoves for easy entrance.

I, Barry James, do bequeath a cat to Mr. Miller, to help him catch any mice that might escape from his Biology room.

I, Nellie Jordan, will to a ubiquitous person the ability to get along with Miss Gernsheimer and Mr. Love as I did.

I, Diana Kenney, do hereby bequeath my book "Illegible Writing Made Easy" to someone who thinks the teachers don't work hard enough.

I, Paul Kenney, leave my curl to Kenny Mills.

I, Ralph Kenyon, do hereby bequeath my ability to disappear from school after attendance is taken to someone with courage.

I, Lana Keskinen, will to my sister Dawn the rubber-soled shoes used to sneak past the office when I skipped study.

We, Donald Kinney and Kenny Rathbun, do bequeath our seats in the cafeteria to any Sophomores who are tired of standing.

I, Gus Konturas, leave my football helmet to Bill Tanner, and hope he will use his head more than I did.

We, Billie Lancaster and Dotty Potter, leave Bonnie Page and Bette Hunt to take our places in this school.

We, Theresa Laudone, Jean Naccarato, and Patty Trebisacci, will our "Gabby" front seats in Mr. Fallon's class to anyone who can talk as much as we did.

I, John Lazzaro, do hereby bequeath my wad of gum to anyone who can get away with chewing it.

I, Earl LeClaire, will 540 broken pencils to an incoming Sophomore, for that's how many he'll use in his three years here.

I, Joe Ledwith, do hereby bequeath to Agnes Lamb our initials, which cover nearly every desk in the school.

I, David Lloyd, bequeath my knowledge of the French language to Frank Perra, who already speaks it like a native.

I, Larry Lupinacci, will a portable stove to Pete Chamberlain, so that he may enjoy study hall snacks.

I, Dave MacKay, leave my ability to sleep during French to Fred Roever. Dormez bien!

We, Fran Mandella, Mary Toscano, and Cyn Tanner, do bequeath our ability to be funloving and carefree to the next Senior class.

I, Cosmo Manfredi, leave my part in the Senior Play to someone who won't mind rehearsing almost every night.

I, Denise McDonald, do hereby bequeath to some lucky Junior girl the thrill of being queen of the Senior Prom.

I, Mary McGauran, will to my four younger sisters all the fun and frolic I had at WHS.

I, Janet McKenzie, do hereby leave Rae Anna Foberg a can opener for her locker when she forgets the combination.

I, Jane Melbourne, leave a certain junior boy to walk the corridors by himself next year.

I, Wendy Merritt, bequeath my false tooth to anyone unfortunate enough to have his own knocked out when running into an alcove.

I, John Miner, leave my best pal, Bob Whyte, behind me. Take good care of him.

We, Herbert Monteith and John Morrone, leave our messy lockers to anyone who wants to clean them.

We, Bill Moscaritolo and Tony Narciso, leave nothing because we need all we've got.

I, Vin Naccarato, bequeath to some unsuspecting member of the cross-country team my size 9½ track shoes.

I, Margaret Nicastro, will to Judy DeBernado my neatness.

We, Adrienne Olcowick and Marilyn Sculco, leave our "reign of terror" in history class to Sandy Mayhew and Mary LaPlante.

I, Frank Perrin, bequeath to Dennie Marie my corner in Mr. Palmer's heart.

I, Jerry Pescatello, do hereby bequeath my debating club chairmanship to someone with courage.

I, John Pescatello, leave my study of the intercellular structure of the slide rule to anyone who can't do long division.

I, Pat Pietraallo, do hereby bequeath to my relatives attending this school the hope that they have better luck here than I did.

I, Patti Remor, will my ride to school in the morning to Marlene Naccarato.

I, Bill Rickson, leave my square-dancing ability to the Ashaway boys.

I, Diane Rigby, do bequeath my fun (??) in type class to all other type students.

I, Betty Romanella, will my ability to argue with my best friends to my cousin Sandra, hoping she'll give in as much as I did.

I, Fran Sacco, bequeath to my sister Linda my pointed shoes used in kicking people when fighting my way into the cafeteria.

We, Connie Sanquedolce and Verlie Wilcox, leave our ability to get along with the SHS male population to Marcia Fauliso.

I, Marie Scarpellino, bequeath my ability to come to school at any hour to someone who likes to sleep late.

I, George Schackner, will my English class seat in room 21 which I have had for three years to my brother Andy.

I, Pat Scott, leave my temper to an underclassman who can control it better than I could.

I, Walt Serio, do bequeath my many years at WHS to Charlie Ruisi, and hope he doesn't need that many.

I, Julie Sherman, will to Jeannie O'Donnell all the names I've carved on the desks here.

I, Steve Silverstein, leave my ability to flirt with the girls to John Algieri, who seems to do a good job already.

I, Linda Sisson, will to my cousin Pam my ability to leave the showers and still have a curly head of hair.

I, Frannie Smith, bequeath to Jackie Kenyon my deficiency in Physics which was followed by a B in the course.

I, Bill Sonntag, leave my membership in the big wheel society to anyone with a white Ford like mine.

I, Bill Strawderman, leave the suggestion that all future Physics students wear skirts if they want an A.

We, Donnie Swain and Tom Lynch, bequeath all our rides in the Willys to anyone who wants to battle wind, rain, and snow.

I, Sandi Sward, will to a fortunate Sophomore girl my position as a cheerleader and all the laryngitis that accompanies it.

I, Tucker Terranova, do hereby bequeath my "Most Valuable Player Award" to Chape Boumenot or Dennie Marie — whoever proves the more worthy.

I, Sue Terrien, will to my sister Anne my efforts to retain the Worcester accent, in the hope that she won't let it die.

I, Lynne Tetlow, bequeath to Roy Larson all the places my friends and I went when we skipped school.

I, George Thayer, leave Mr. Palmer to his future students who did not heed our warnings.

I, Marylou Thorpe, bequeath my lame brain and talkative nature to Edith Restelli.

I, Ned Tobin, leave my deepest sympathy to anyone who has had to suffer through this will.

I, John Toscano, do hereby bequeath my nickname "Meat" to a vegetarian in the Junior class.

I, George Visgilio, will to the next Senior class president an enrollment in a Charles Atlas course, so that he'll have enough power to conduct an orderly meeting.

I, Frank Vitro, leave the care of my brother Bob in the capable hands of Chape Boumenot.

I, Robert Weber, do bequeath my daily ride to school with Bill Rickson to Ticker Clarke.

I, Judy Wilcox, will to Josie Chamberlain my ability to be quiet on Mr. Greene's bus.

I, Sally Woodward, leave my position as captain of the cheerleaders to Doreen Banning. Good luck, Chick!

We, the Class of 1959, bequeath to the underclassmen, our three years of study, headaches, and fun.

To the next Senior class we do hereby bequeath our unsuccessful attempts to attain Senior respect and priority.

We, the Class of 1959, leave . . . just in time to avoid a longer school day and year.

We, the Class of 1959, do finally leave . . . knowing the officials and faculty will be deeply saddened by our departure.

Van Horn.

EDITORS: J. Biswurm, art editor; J. Adimari, editor-in-chief; N. Jordan, business editor.

The members of the Bulldog staff are proud to present what we feel is a new and better Yearbook. We hope that, in spite of the many difficulties and disagreements encountered, you are well pleased with the result of our time, work, and worry. May each Senior take his Yearbook with him as a remembrance of a cherished period in his life, and may it be an inspiration to the underclassmen to be liberal in their own Yearbooks.

In order that June delivery not be hampered, all Graduation and Spring activities, which have not been included, will take form in a supplement that will be issued during the Summer. This is a part of the Yearbook and will fit in place with the rest.

To Mrs. Stedman, our advisor, who was so generous in giving her time and guidance; to those of the staff who worked so diligently, especially Nellie Jordan, business editor, and Joyce Biswurm, art editor; to the many outside the staff who so graciously volunteered their much needed assistance; to everyone who helped make this Yearbook possible, may I extend my deepest appreciation. May each of you feel great satisfaction in having contributed to the success of our Yearbook.

Student Actors Outstanding in Play

"The Unguided Miss," a three-act comedy by William Davidson, was last night's well-attended production of the Westerly High School Senior Class.

Set in a typical American home, the play deals hilariously, and yet rewardingly, with the exchange of ideas, romances and humor that result when teen-agers from here and abroad meet. This encounter plus the exasperation of the parents involved produce a thoroughly enjoyable effect.

Cynthia Marino, as Susan Brice, gave a fine presentation of the impudent, self-centered teen-ager who is extremely provoked by her foreign competitor. She was especially good in her angry expostulations.

Frank Vitro was excellent as Clint Bryce who rejects the modern psychological approaches to his daughter's "dreamy stage" and selfish attitudes.

As Madge Bryce, Carol Cofone portrayed very well the understanding and sympathetic mother.

The unromantic, hot rod fiend George, as portrayed by John Hall, was effectively unknowing and indifferent.

Playing Buzzi, the kid sister, Donna Capalbo was the perfect "know all-tell all" brat,

Truly outstanding was Mary Bottelle as Lucia Ferrari, the naive exchange student from Italy. Always the "perfect darling," she was most memorable in the third act telephone episode.
